4 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
5 WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
6 AT TACOMA

7 RICHARD ROY SCOTT,

8 Plaintiff,

9 v.

10 KELLY CUNNINGHAM,

11 Defendant.

No. C11-6015 BHS/KLS

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION
Noted For: June 29, 2012

12 Before the Court is Plaintiff's "Emergency Motion for Sanctions/Relief". ECF No.
13 18. Mr. Scott is confined at the Special Commitment Center (SCC) on McNeil Island in Pierce
14 County. He has a long history of abusive litigation tactics and is the subject of case management 15 orders in the Western District of Washington. The Court is managing this case pursuant to those 16 Orders. ECF No. 4; Scott v. Seling, C04-5147 RJB, ECF Nos. 152 and 170 ¶ 9.

17 Pursuant to the case management orders, any motions for temporary relief filed by 18 Mr. Scott must first be reviewed by the judge:

19 Any motion for temporary restraining order (TRO) or other injunctive relief
20 must comply with all of the requirements of Fed. R. Civ. P. 65. Any motion
21 for a TRO or other injunctive relief, other than contained in a complaint, must 22 first be reviewed by the judge. If the motion does not meet the requirements
23 of Fed. R. Civ. P. 65 the motion shall be filed with the judge's notation that 24 the document is to be filed with no further ruling by the Court. The defendant in the case need not file a response to the motion unless directed to do so by the judge.

DISCUSSION

A preliminary injunction is an “extraordinary and drastic remedy” that is never awarded as of right. Munaf v. Geren, 553 U.S. 674, 689-90, 128 S. Ct. 2207, 2219, 171 L.Ed.2d 1 (2008) (citations and quotation omitted). Instead, the instant motion requires the court to “balance the competing claims of injury and ... the effect of the granting or withholding of the requested relief.” Winter v. Natural Res. Def. Council, 555 U.S. 7, 129 S. Ct. 365, 376, 172 L.Ed.2d 249 (2008) (quoting Amoco Prod. Co. v. Gambell, 480 U.S. 531, 542, 107 S. Ct. 1396, 94 L.Ed.2d 542 (1987)). A plaintiff seeking a preliminary injunction must establish the following: (1) a likelihood of success on the merits, (2) a likelihood of irreparable injury to the plaintiff if injunctive relief is not granted, (3) a balance of hardships favoring the plaintiff, and (4) advancement of the public interest. Id. (citations omitted). This is an “extraordinary remedy that may only be awarded upon a clear showing that the plaintiff is entitled to such relief.” Id. at 376. Moreover, Plaintiff must show more than a mere “possibility” of irreparable harm, but instead must “demonstrate that irreparable injury is likely in the absence of an injunction.” Id. at 375 (emphasis and citations omitted).

Thus, Mr. Scott must show that he is likely to succeed on the merits of his claim, that he will be irreparably harmed if he is not granted the extraordinary relief he seeks, that the balance of harm favors him, and that public interest favors granting the relief he seeks. In his Amended Complaint, Mr. Scott alleges that Defendant Cunningham, either directly or through his employees, engaged in retaliatory conduct against him after he sued Defendant Cunningham in Case No. C11-5509. This alleged conduct included confiscating Mr. Scott’s computer and electronic data, subjecting him to room and strip searches, wrongful infractions and demotions, slowing down vendor orders, applying restrictive conditions, interfering with legal mail, and

1 threatening loss of privileges when Mr. Scott complained about mailroom actions or medical
2 issues. ECF No. 13.

3 With the foregoing legal principals and Mr. Scott's claims in mind, the undersigned
4 makes the following recommendation as to Mr. Scott's motion for temporary injunction. It is not
5 entirely clear what relief Mr. Scott seeks in his motion. He complains that he is being kept out of 6 the mailroom and has no phone use and cannot call his sister, the media, or his bank. ECF No.
7 18, at 1-2. Under the heading relief, he states: "immediate relief is needed since foot problems
8 can be not just be painful, but can result in a preminate [sic] disabilities. Already in a disability
9 as has as [sic] court access via the mailroom." Id., at 2. He also refers to being on a NCS diet
10 and prostate issues. Attached to his motion is a note addressed to "Sziebert" dated May 31, 2012
11 complaining of a "swollen leg foot". Id., at 4.

12
13 The issues raised in this motion are not related to the claims raised in this lawsuit.
14 Further, Mr. Scott makes no showing of any immediate threat of irreparable harm and makes no
15 effort to comply with the standards governing temporary injunctions. In fact, Mr. Scott makes 16 no colorable argument for any relief at all. It is recommended that the noting date of this motion
17 (ECF No. 18) be stricken and that there be no further ruling on this motion by the Court.

18 CONCLUSION

20 Based on the foregoing and the case management orders governing this case, the 21 undersigned recommends that no further action be taken on ECF No. 18.

23 Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1) and Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b), the parties shall have 24 fourteen (14) days from service of this Report to file written objections. See also Fed. R. Civ. P.
25 6. Failure to file objections will result in a waiver of those objections for purposes of appeal.
